Helene Luer Remembers Hartland in her Estate Trust

Helene Fuchs Luer, was a wonderful woman with a sense of humor and a love for the Lord. She lived in Croton Falls, NY, in a lovely stone home with a beautiful view overlooking a very large reservoir. She loved to garden, and always had an abundance of flowers and vegetables. She was an active member of her Baptist church until she could no longer attend regularly due to her health.

Helene Luer 1913-2002

Tante Helene, as she was affectionately called by her German family, was born in the Old Country in 1913. Helene emigrated to America in 1930. She married a man named Wilhelm Luer, known as Uncle Willie. Wilhelm was a carpenter and builder and the two of them built a home on a piece of land they purchased near Croton Falls. Uncle Willie died in 1963, leaving Helene alone for 39 years. Her family was very special to her, and she always looked forward to their visits, even after she moved to a nursing home.

“Helene was a generous and loving Christian who was happiest when she was entertaining her friends,” says Dick Mayer, a very close friend and relative. Dick, a long term member of Hartland’s board, told Helene about Hartland, and the good work of training missionaries.

Helene passed to her rest on February 3, 2002, leaving legacies to Hartland along with her nephews, nieces, and some of her caregivers. What Helene had done was to place all her assets in a trust, divided in 20 equal shares, to benefit a number of her family members and a couple of charitable organizations, of which Hartland was one. When she heard about Hartland, she felt that she wanted to leave something in her estate for God’s work at Hartland because it was doing so much to train youth in mission work for the cause of God.

Helene will never know until resurrection morning how much good she has done by her generous legacy to Hartland, in the lives that are being trained to win souls to the Lord. But she trusted that God would use those funds to further his cause in the far flung corners of the world.

If you would like to discuss how your estate plan can have a world-wide impact through the ministry of Hartland, please contact us. Hartland has good confidential counseling services that can be of help in planning, so that your legacy is maximized both for your family needs and for the good of God’s cause.

Mom Again!

It's great to be a Mom again!" said Ramona as she greeted me in the foyer of Hartland Wellness Center the other day. When Ramona came to the Center in February, she was unable to attend a number of her scheduled activities and had to stay in her room and rest due to the pain and exhaustion from a serious case of lupus. When she was able to go to the dining room or attend a lecture, she could only walk slowly down the hall and lean on the Ramona's lupus and a host of allergies had debilitated her. During her stay at Hartland, we put her on a short cleansing program, balanced vegan vegetarian diet and vigorous hydrotherapy, massage, and other natural remedies.

Two months later, Ramona drove her car from South Florida with two of her small children to attend our spring convocation. I must confess I did not Ramona is now walking five miles a day and is having a great time being a mom again. She has a big smile on her face. But the story doesn't end there. Ramona shared with us that her walk with God is so much stronger now since her experience at the Wellness Center.

HARTLAND COLLEGE

New Minor in Agriculture

Agriculture is the ABC of true education at Hartland College. We are presently expanding our gardening and horticulture program. In harmony with God's counsel we are offering a new Minor in Agriculture. Christian Secondary Education majors may use this as a specialization. All students at Hartland College take one year of gardening class and one ten-week summer lab. But this new program will allow all students to learn more about agriculture, both academically and practically.

New challenges are facing those engaged in agriculture and this program is intended to provide education based on sound principles that will form a basis for practical food production. Through this program, students will understand key agricultural issues that affect our diet, environment, and food availability. It will have practical instruction in soil chemistry, methods and techniques of propagation, cultivation, natural fertilization and pest control. Through the gardening classes, they will gain a practical knowledge of how to produce food to sustain themselves. Meanwhile, they experience God's blessings of cooperation, industry, as well as sunshine, fresh air, physical exercise as they develop character.

Starting Fall 2002, Hartland College will offer the new Minor. The curriculum is designed to enable graduates of any major to develop agricultural opportunities wherever God may send them. Hartland's thriving greenhouses and gardens give students wide experience and training.

By Aiko Reichard,
Hartland College Student

Students are excited about the new program. Here are some of their comments:

Richard Haughton:
"Gardening at Hartland has opened a unique opportunity for students. The cultivation of crops for domestic and commercial use encourages and instills habits of industry. The gardening minor at Hartland will give students these privileges."

Keli Estrella:
"Working in Hartland's new agriculture and horticulture program has been awesome. One of the greatest blessings is that we work very hard together as a team to get the work accomplished."

Deanna Van Duyn:
"I'm looking forward to this Agriculture Minor because it is important for us living in the last days to know how to garden for ourselves and produce our own food. We can't trust fruits and vegetables today because many of them have been genetically modified and are potential health hazards. It has the potential for great future job opportunities. It's especially enjoyable working outside and being at one with nature and God's creation."

For more information about this great opportunity or about applying, please call:

Don't You Dare Start Praying For Me!

We get many interesting letters at the Last Generation office. Some are positive. Others are, well, interesting . . . like this letter from a librarian named Tom who received a magazine from our library project:

“Keep your rag. We don't want it here. Especially in light of the religious violence of September 11th, it's about time for our entire species to wake up and realize that there will never be peace in a world where people pretend to believe in God. Religion has always been the main reason for humans to kill one another—the twentieth century was the exception to the rule, but I see the twenty-first is taking us right back to the norm. The last thing my patrons, or I need to see, is another propaganda tool for the evil god industry. When will you and your kind learn better?”

No thanks, Tom C.

P.S. Don't you dare start praying for me.”

Well, what do you think we did? That's right! We had special prayer for Tom.

Do you think Jesus loves Tom? Oh yes! Do you think the angels are trying to reach him with God's love? Absolutely! For all we know, Tom may have legitimate reasons for his disgust with Christians. So join us in praying for Tom and others who are hostile to God and His truth.

Oh, by the way, Tom forgot to send us a return address, so he received another issue before he realized his error. The second letter we received was more polite and included all the information we needed to cancel his library's subscription. But you never know, maybe that second magazine was the very issue he needed!

Struggling School of the Prophets in South Africa

Established in 1927, Cancele Senior Secondary School (along with other schools) was closed by the Southern Hope SDA Conference in South Africa in December 1998, due to decreased enrollment.

My attention was drawn to this project about 6 months ago when Pastor Tolosi sent pictures of the school. A LESSON FROM HISTORY

Patrick and the Criminal Preacher

Patrick Henry is famous for his pithy and passionate statement during the struggle for American Independence. His cry "Give me liberty or give me death!" is still ringing in the ears of every true American. But many don't know the background behind that powerful statement.

As Patrick Henry rode his horse into the town of Culpeper, Va (not far from where Hartland is today), in March 1775, he was shocked by what he saw.

The town center was crowded with people. As he approached, he heard the sound of a whip laced with metal, mercilessly lashing the back of some poor victim.

He was horrified by the sight. He said, "When they stopped beating him, I could see the bones of his rib cage."

As the blood flowed, Patrick asked someone what this man had done to deserve such cruel punishment. He was told that he was a Baptist preacher that had refused to take a government license to preach. Three days later he was scourged again. This time he died.

St. John Episcopal Church, Richmond. Here Patrick Henry gave his famous speech in 1775.

came to America for religious liberty, they often granted it only to themselves, not those of other faiths.

"Give me liberty or give me death!"

This martyr for liberty never knew of his impact on Patrick's mind, or how very influential he was in gaining independence from Britain, and freedom of religion for all Americans. Baptists believed that the only valid preaching license was as a Bible text, "Go ye into ALL the world, and preach the gospel to every creature." Mark 16:15. They believed that God had directed that Bible truth must be preached in Culpeper and all of Virginia, and the other colonies too. He gave his life in the cause of liberty of conscience.

Patrick penned his famous words which became a rallying cry of the Revolution. "What is it that Gentlemen wish? What would they have? Is life so dear, or peace so sweet, as to be purchased at the price of chains and slavery? Forbid it, Almighty God! I know not what course others may take, but as for me, GIVE ME LIBERTY OR GIVE ME DEATH!" His famous speech in Richmond, VA's Episcopal Church used this famous phrase

Though the ecumenical movement is steadily deadening our sensibilities to the real issues in religious liberty, God needs more men and women who will hold to their convictions regardless of the consequences, like this unnamed Baptist preacher, whose influence is still being felt today.

By Hal Mayer,
History Professor at
Hartland College

"...I know not what course others may take, but as for me, GIVE ME LIBERTY OR GIVE ME DEATH!"

In those days, before there was religious liberty in America, Virginia was an Anglican colony in which church and state were mixed together similar to the way it had been in Europe. Though many people

Paving Project Makes a Big Difference

During the month of October, phase one of the road paving was completed on the Hartland campus. All the main parking lots as well as the main roads throughout the campus were covered with asphalt.

“Boy, does it make a big difference.” “No more dust!” “Now vehicles will last longer,” etc, are the comments that we have heard from both visitors and staff.

We especially want to thank all those who contributed to this very important project. It really upgrades our ability to minister to Hartland Wellness Center guests, students, camp meeting visitors and others. When people walk in the dark, for example, it is much safer.

There are many other advantages as well. The expanded parking and service road area at the mansion has also relieved a lot of congestion and parking problems. Incidentally, the contractor accepted a donation receipt for over $9,000, which he donated to the project in materials and labor.

This was a major project, and we thank the Lord for His goodness. Phase 2 will probably move forward in 2002. It will include new roads to the new auto shop and new dorms, as well as driveways. The over all project includes remodeling of the porch area at the mansion which is underway.

Don't Miss These Great Events!

Camp Meeting July 30 – August 4, 2002. Great speakers, heavenly music, and wonderful fellowship. Speakers include: Russell & Colin Standish, Ray DeCarlo, Thomas Jackson, Ron Spear, Hal Mayer and more...

Plan for Fall Convocation October 18-20, 2002. The speaker will be Dr. Neil Nedley, author of two major definitive health books—Proof Positive and Depression, The Way Out.

WORLD MISSION UPDATE

WANTED:

Literature Warriors for Toronto

The largest convention in the history of Toronto, Canada, will take place from July 23-28, 2002. We need many men and women to participate in this once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to reach out to Roman Catholic youth. They will be gathering for the Pope's World Youth Day of Prayer ending in a Mass conducted by Pope John Paul II. Attendance estimates vary from 600,000 to 2 million, under the age of 35.

The Roman Catholic clergy plan strong efforts to "protect" the youth from proselytizing Protestants. But Protestants will counter error with much error of their own. These youth need to know the true gospel of Jesus Christ. We have planned a magazine, which will, in a most winning way, reach out to these young people with the truth. By encouraging them to be "careful" about the teachings of Protestants, our literature will actually show them the errors of Catholicism and direct them to the truth.

The success of this project depends upon your willingness to participate. All volunteers will be needed in Toronto July 22. Those who express interest will receive detailed information. Come, join us in bringing the marvelous light of God's end-time truth to these precious Roman Catholic youth. Also encourage others to join us. There will likely be many Roman Catholic youth in God's eternal kingdom from this effort. But we know not when, if ever again, we will have this opportunity.

Hartland International Touring Choir in Haiti

It is a great privilege to be with God's people," said Michelle when we visited her home, "When I went for consultation, I felt the presence of God with you." Michelle lives in Haiti and was having some physical problems when the Hartland International Touring Choir was visiting her country during spring break. We gave her advice about health when she came to us. But she was so impressed with the sense of the spirit of God that she wanted more!

We invited Michelle to the evangelistic meetings that we were holding. The first night she came, she heard the evangelist (Manny Baek, a Hartland College teacher) talk about health and reaffirm all the things we told her. The second night she came, the topic was the Sabbath and how to find the true church. We really prayed that the Holy Spirit would open her heart. This was her first contact with Seventh-day Adventists. She loves Jesus, but she told us she has never found a church that satisfies her. Obviously she was impressed.

We gave her a book in French so she can study for herself. She is a precious soul that especially responded to Jesus' method of working. We first ministered to her physical needs and then bade her follow Him. The Choir spent 10 days in Haiti working among the poorest of the poor. There is a great need for medical missionary workers and evangelists there. We learned that we can bring people physical healing and total spiritual healing by combining gospel work with medical missionary work.

Editor's note: The Hartland International Touring Choir "sacrificed" their spring break doing medical missionary work, evangelism, and orphanage work in Haiti, a country that rarely has those kinds of visitors from America. It is the poorest country in the western hemisphere, and is often spiritually neglected. The choir is committed to ministering to those in need. They are not merely a show choir that entertains. They also work for complete restoration. They preach, teach, and minister to the sick as well as soften hearts to the gospel through song.

STEWARDSHIP MINISTRIES

Sacred Offerings?

I have a friend who sometimes goes out of her way to give to the cause of God. She begrudges spending any more than she must on incidentals, travel and other expenses so that she can invest as much as possible in God's cause. She even forgoes meals occasionally, something most of us might neglect to do. She is an active steward of her resources for God.

Stewardship of our finances is vital to our success in this life and the life to come. "Will a man rob God? Yet ye have robbed me. But ye say, Wherein have we robbed thee? In tithes and offerings... prove me now herewith, saith the LORD of hosts, if I will not open you the windows of heaven, and pour you out a blessing, that there shall not be room enough to receive it." Malachi 3:8, 10.

Notice that returning the Lord's portion opens the windows of heaven. The more faithful we are, the more faithful He is to return blessings. This in turn increases our ability to bless His cause, which increases His blessings, and the circle grows.

Notice that the way we rob God is in both tithes AND offerings, not just tithes. But, isn't there a difference between them? Tithes is a specific percentage of our increase and is reserved for funding only certain parts of God's work. Offerings on the other hand are not a specified amount of our increase, and they are not restricted in use. Offerings can be used for many projects for which tithes use would be forbidden. But both are sacred, and both are required by God. Neither tithes nor offerings should be placed where they will be misused.

Our systematic offerings are as much a part of worship as are our tithes. Returning a faithful tithe reveals our recognition of God's sovereignty over all we have and are. Offerings provide us the opportunity to show God how thankful we really are for His sacrifice for us and for our deliverance from sin. Therefore offerings should be given cheerfully and voluntarily in proportion to our joy and gratefulness.

We won't be stingy with our offerings if we truly and joyfully love Christ. We can even look for ways to give more to the cause of God, like my friend.

Offerings should be an expression of how much we value the light and blessings received.

How much should I give in offerings to the Lord? How many blessings have you received? Offerings should be an expression of how much we value the light and blessings received. How often have we neglected to show appreciation for what God has done in bringing us into the light of present truth?

Betsy and I systematically return to the Lord, 10% tithe from our income, and another 10% for offering. At first we wondered whether this would impinge on our needs, but we learned to live within the remainder, and the Lord continues to bless us. We stretched a little beyond what we thought we could, and found that we actually could survive. The old adage "You can't out-give the Lord" has been proven over and over in our lives. Incidentally we take the offering 10% off the top of our income (just like tithe), not after we have spent for all our personal needs. Sometimes we are moved to give more than our regular 10% offerings. We love helping to fund various aspects of God's work. It makes us feel great!

It may be time for God's people who love present truth to give some thought to the principle of Stewardship in offerings. Why not join Betsy and me in systematic and joyful giving to the Lord? It will make you feel great! God bless you.

Hartland Hosts Medical Missionary Symposium

The Hartland Wellness Center hosted its first Medical Missionary Symposium, from March 31st thru April 6th. Participants of the symposium came from all over—from Georgia to California. The symposium goals were two-fold. First, to provide continuing education for medical missionaries; second, to develop a networking society by which medical missionaries can communicate worldwide.

*Symposium speaker
Milton Crane, M.D.*

Speakers at the symposium included Milton Crane, M.D., Louis Cruz, N.D., Thomas Jackson, John Skeete, Bob Jorgensen, Sebastian Teh, Shelem Flemons, and Walt Cross. Interesting seminar topics included treatment protocols for AIDS, hepatitis C, cardiovascular disease, diabetes and cancer. Herbs and herbal treatments were discussed as alternatives to some clinical care. There were many round table discussions on topics such as starting your own medical missionary ministry. The symposium offered many opportunities for personal discussion with other participants.

During the symposium, The Society of Medical Missionary Evangelists was founded to foster true gospel information and resource sharing among medical missionaries.

In an effort to fulfill the mission, the society membership voted to have symposiums every six months. The next one is to be near Atlanta, GA.

true education to all of Southern Africa. The leaders are dedicated to studying the principles of true education and making Cancele a model for other such schools.

The great need in Africa (and many developing countries) is for training schools to train the youth in the principles of truth and righteousness. We need an "army of youth" who will take the message of salvation to their people before it is too late. Jesus is coming soon and this gospel of the kingdom must be preached in all the world before He returns.

If you would like to help with this worthy project, please mark "Cancele" or "South Africa" on your check. I am working closely with them to assure that the funds will be used to the best advantage. Thank you for your continued support of Hartland World Mission.

The Contrasts in Education

While in Australia in December, I took my family for their first visit to the University of Sydney, where I had studied and taught. To my surprise, a graduation was taking place with several hundred students graduating that day. I was interested to observe the graduation exercises. I was impressed by the masterly playing of the grand pipe organ in the Great Hall. As I gazed upon the students about to receive the diplomas, I could not help but wonder how many of these young people would find their work in ministry for the Lord Jesus Christ. Graduates came from many different countries.

But I was especially interested in the oration given by the woman chosen to be the speaker. She was a State Parliamentarian. I was struck by the emptiness of the message, the hedonistic principles which were interwoven into her address. I heard no challenges to service even of a humanistic nature, let alone those made by a devout servant of our Savior. The focus was upon selfish exaltation and achievement. It was disappointing at the least.

My thoughts reverted to the solemn, deeply spiritual nature of Hartland graduations as students are committed to the care and keeping of their Savior. I was reminded again of the sacrifice of Jesus on behalf of all humanity and the great claims that He has upon our lives and service. I reflected upon the solemn testimonies of our graduates before they launch into the full field of service for the cause of Christ and for the salvation of souls. The contrast between secular and Christian education could not have been more clearly witnessed. One institution is greatly honored by its prestigious reputation in Australia, with a huge student body, and a much revered tradition, along with famous graduates. Contrast this with a small college of dedicated, self-sacrificing staff, and a small student body who are committing their lives to sacrifice in the service of the King of kings. Through Hartland College, vastly more will be accomplished of eternal consequences than that mighty university.

"I was reminded again of the sacrifice of Jesus on behalf of all humanity and the great claims that He has upon our lives and service."

Please continue to pray daily for these young people who, under the Holy Spirit, are dedicated to turning the world right side up and presenting the everlasting gospel to its inhabitants.

Yours in the blessed hope,
